

CPRLV AGENDA

March 2018

For more information: info-radical.org

21 MARCH

Prevention activity in Terrebonne (in French, open to all):
“The Art Of Self-Expression” workshop

As part of the CPRLV’s What If I Was Wrong? When We Talk, We Learn! campaign in collaboration with CCUNESCO, the Centre is holding its workshop “The Art Of Self-Expression”.

Places are limited, please register at:
info@whatifiwaswrong.org

26 MARCH

Prevention activity in Montreal (in French, open to all):
“Quiz Night” workshop

As part of the CPRLV’s What If I Was Wrong? When We Talk, We Learn! campaign in collaboration with CCUNESCO, the Centre offers a “Quiz Night” workshop as part of the Semaine d’actions contre le racisme.

Places are limited, please register at:
info@whatifiwaswrong.org

27 MARCH

7 p.m.

L’Histoire se répète-elle/Is history repeating itself? (Bilingual, open to all)

The Centre presents this discussion on the current rise of far right groups, co-organized with the Montreal Holocaust Museum, the Semaine d’actions contre le racisme, the German Consulate General in Montreal and the COR. Listen to academic experts Kai Arzheimer and David Morin, as well as Maxime Fiset, a former neo-Nazi who now works for the CPRLV.

To register (<https://www.eventbrite.ca/>)

28 MARCH

12 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Midday talk at the Centre (in French, open to all): Educator’s Guide What If I Was Wrong?

The Centre is opening its doors to invite you to a midday talk about the Educator’s Guide What If I Was Wrong? launched as part of the campaign What If I Was Wrong? When We Talk, We Learn! in collaboration with CCUNESCO.

Places are limited, please register at: info@info-radical.org

CENTRE FOR THE PREVENTION OF RADICALIZATION
LEADING TO VIOLENCE